

Editor's Note

Happy New Year 2022. May the New Year bestow upon you all things that are righteously desired.

Our journal also strives to do everything that is righteously beneficial to its contributors, although they must of course make an effort to help themselves first. We ask them to make sure that they carefully read the instructions for submitting an article as laid out in the journal website and follow them as completely as they can. Better still, previous published articles freely available for all to see in the journal website can also serve as excellent examples of the journal's preferred format and style of writing in action. This will greatly facilitate our process of selecting a submitted paper for consideration and processing.

Although it seems that each and everyone of us has a little personal lamp for visualising the world, and the world is thus more or less our personal experience which may or may not coincide with those of others, a degree of normalisation is nevertheless necessary for everyone of us in order that we can easier communicate with one another in a satisfactory manner.

Happy New Year again and best wishes to all our valued contributors.