Editor's Note

Science and technology is a vast field and it is impossible for one journal in its name to cover all the topics in it. To conform to this fact, our journal has also limited its current scope, which clearly indicates examples of what topics are excluded. Authors are therefore kindly asked to read it carefully before submission. This so that their valuable time can be saved from submitting manuscripts with the wrong topics.

Lastly, as befits a research article in general, we offer an anonymous author's saying – "Knowledge dwells in three mansions: the house of words, the home of facts, and the niche of wisdom. It is the last only that harbours peace of mind."

May the New Year 2023 bestow all the good things wished for upon all valued contributors.
